

Alphabet Find Learning Activity

An activity so amazing you need to make it today. This activity not only lets you sit on the couch with your feet up but wears your toddler out.

This alphabet find toddler activity is the stuff activity dreams are made of.

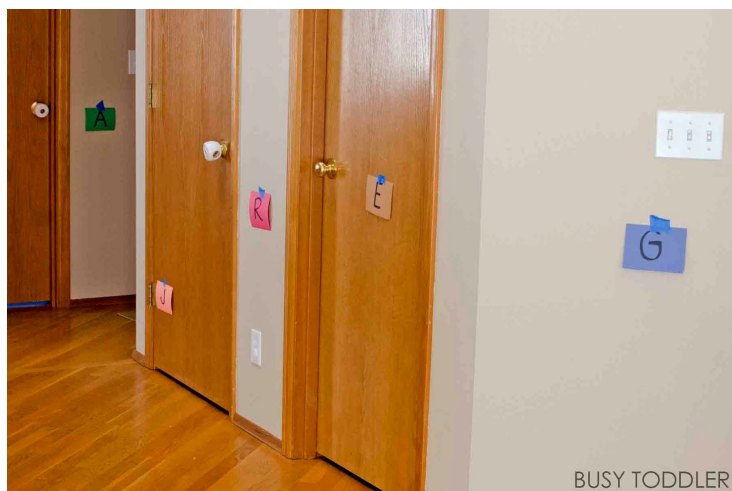

Here's all you need to get this magical activity going:

- Construction paper
- Markers
- Tape

I know that was an extensive materials list and you can't believe it

The set up low-down:

Cut your construction paper in half and write a single letter on each one.

Walk around your house taping them to the walls in random order. Make sure to spread them out. Mix them up. And hang them at toddler eye level.

Now go grab your hot coffee and park your bootie on the couch. It's time to play.

All you do is call out the letters.

That's it.

*Then they race around the house to find it.
Touch the letter. Then race back to you.*

I KNOW. THAT'S IT. It's just that simple but it's just that brilliant.

But actually that's not JUST it.

There are a million ways to vary this and change it up for your kids.

- Send them hunting for sounds.
- Send them hunting for the letter that starts the word.... ("Find me the letter that starts the word CAR")
- Not ready for letters? Try blank colored paper and send them on a color hunt.
- Make them hop, skip, or jump to the letter.
- Let them run laps, tapping the letters and shouting them out.
- Turn the lights off at night for a night time letter hunt.

This just doesn't get old to them.

I left this up for a week and every day was a new adventure with their alphabet find. They were hooked in deep with this activity and I was loving every minute of my hot coffee.

It's a magical activity. Will you find the magic at your place?
